Mission

Galileo Research is fully committed to help pharmaceutical Companies advance their research on the path through non-clinical development, maximizing the discovery value by leveraging the potential indications of their pipeline, and identifying and minimizing its potential safety risks.

We are a client-focused company that endeavors in quality and innovative approaches to solve current bottlenecks in drug discovery and non-clinical development.

Our scientific experience can also support research and development in the field of cosmetics, medical devices, foods, agrochemicals and nutraceuticals.

Galileo Research also has an R&D pipeline strongly focused on advanced therapies, supported by a solid I.P foundation and invaluable national and international partnerships and devoted to identify new therapeutic strategies for pathologies where medical needs are still unmet.
